

LAST TRIBUTES ARE SADLY PAID DR. F. W. MARLOW

Dr. H. A. Bruce Among Prominent Citizens at Funeral

Many prominent persons in public life and the medical profession, including Dr. Herbert A. Bruce, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, assembled in St. Paul's Anglican Church yesterday afternoon to pay their last respects to Colonel Dr. Frederick William Marlow.

Right Rev. R. J. Renison read the Scripture lesson, after which Rev. Dr. H. J. Cody mounted the pulpit to review the life of Dr. Marlow.

"It seems that the hand of death has fallen heavily upon the medical profession during the past few years," he said, mentioning several prominent physicians who had recently passed on. "Now we meet in this church where he worshipped to pay tribute to our friend and comrade, Frederick Marlow."

Lauding his work of many years on the Medical Faculty of the University of Toronto, Dr. Cody declared that Dr. Marlow had embodied the noblest qualities of his profession.

"His heroism, his indomitable will during the past eleven years are well known," said Dr. Cody, referring to Dr. Marlow's ill health. "It was the will to live that carried him through. We are thankful that the end came so quietly, so painlessly."

Representatives were present from the Canadian Army Medical Corps, the Academy of Medicine, old Trinity College Medical School, Royal College of Surgeons, Canadian and Ontario Medical Associations, University of Toronto, Toronto General, Wellesley, St. John's, Women's College and St. Michael's Hospitals; the Aesculapian Club and the Canadian Red Cross Society.

Honorary pallbearers were: Dr. Charles P. Fenwick, Dr. Henry C. Wales, Dr. H. B. Anderson, Dr. W. Warner Jones, Dr. W. K. Colbeck, Dr. George S. Young, Dr. W. A. Scott, Dr. W. B. Hendry, Dr. W. E. Gallie, Dr. Mortimer Lyon, Dr. H. Glendinning and Dr. H. M. Tovell. Active bearers were: Dr. W. G. Cosbie, Dr. H. W. Johnston, Dr. R. F. MacMillan, Gordon W. Hewitt, W. Herbert Parr and Dr. W. J. Kerr.

Burial at Forest Lawn Mausoleum followed the service at St. Paul's.
